OUR MAIN 2022 PROJECT

We will provide statistical data and insights on child sexual abuse in Hong Kong to help all stakeholders including the public, educational institutions, government law enforcement and judiciaries, and other NGOs have a clearer picture of the prevalence, impact, and offender statistics. Having updated and well segmented data will assist in targeting more effective plans to better protect children. The project will also identify where there are significant gaps in knowledge so that better data can be planned for in the future.

WHY ARE WE HERE

Hong Kong lacks two things that we think are essential to heal from and reduce sexual violence toward both children and adults:

- No peer support groups for survivors in English (and very limited in Chinese)
- Very little public or stake holder awareness of the large scale of child sexual abuse

13% of children are sexually abused

18% of girls 8% of boys
